PUMP SUCCESS

VARIABLE OR MULTI-SPEED

In July 2021 the U.S. Department of Energy passed federal regulations mandating specific performance standards for pumps. Currently the only way to meet those standards is with a multi-speed or variable speed pump. To ensure heaters, cleaners and sanitizing systems, like FROG, will perform as designed

JUST REMEMBER: 4 TO 8 FOR 6!
(4 TO 8 PSI FOR 6 HOURS A DAY ON HIGH SPEED)

Tips to ensure success:

TIP 1 PROGRAM THE PUMP

Program the pump to meet the needs of each pool with at least 6 hours on high speed.

(Approximately 3,000 RPMs)

TIP 2 CHECK THE BACK PRESSURE

While on high speed, check the back pressure on the FROG System with our pressure gauge to ensure it is between 4 and 8 psi.

ORDER CODE: 01-22-4000

TIP 3 CHANGE THE EYEBALL FITTING

If lower than 4 psi or higher than 8 psi, change out the eyeball fitting in the return jets to increase or decrease back pressure.

(A smaller eyeball to increase pressure and a larger eyeball to decrease pressure)

TIP 4 SET THE FROG LEAP DIAL

Set the FROG Leap dial and have the pool owner monitor the chlorine levels for a few days and adjust the setting no more than 1 number per day until the level stays between 0.5 and 1.0 ppm.

For more information on the hydraulics of FROG, see our training portal at partners.kingtechnology.com

Standard test strips will show Total Chlorine and Free Chlorine ranges that are different than the way FROG @ease works, which causes confusion.

CYANURIC ACID'S NEGATIVE IMPACT

IN HOT TUBS

Did you know every bottle of dichlor is about 50% Cyanuric Acid? It's in the name!

Did you know the CDC does not recommend the use of chlorine with Cyanuric Acid in hot tubs?

Weeks	Cyanuric Acid Level	Results
4	50 ppm	Problems begin
7	100 ppm	Chlorine ineffective
10	150 ppm	Unrecoverable

Based on 1/2 tsp. per 100 gallons 4x per week

With every dose of dichlor, the Cyanuric Acid builds while the chlorine becomes less and less effective. In as little as seven weeks, the consumer may have no option but to drain and refill the hot tub.

At Cyanuric Acid levels of over 50 ppm, hot tub owners will experience:

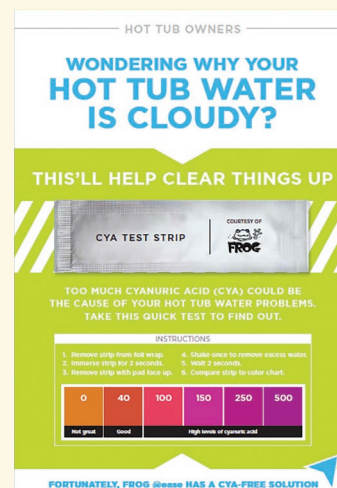

The good news is FROG @ease has 0% Cyanuric Acid. Converting your dichlor customers will mean happier hot tub owners who remain loyal to you.

Cyanuric Acid Test Strip Card

Give this card to hot tub owners struggling with water care. When they test their Cyanuric Acid and the levels are high, you'll have the solution – FROG @ease.

Self-Regulating Properties of SmartChlor Technology

SmartChlor Technology maintains a consistently low Free Chlorine level of 0.5 – 1.0 ppm at all times. It does so by creating a reserve that converts to Free Chlorine when it senses demand on the hot tub. Dichlor's Free Chlorine level drops significantly under demand requiring the user to shock. SmartChlor reduces shocking to only once a month!

The Genius of SmartChlor

SmartChlor vs. Dichlor

No more yo-yo chlorine levels with SmartChlor!

	SmartChlor	Dichlor
Total Chlorine	SmartChlor Reserve converts to Free Chlorine when needed	To determine the level of chloramines measure the difference between Free Chlorine and Total Chlorine
Free Chlorine	Self-regulates at a consistent 0.5 – 1.0 ppm for the life of the cartridge	Need to keep adding to maintain 2 – 4 ppm
Shocking	Once a month	At least weekly
Cyanuric Acid	No Cyanuric Acid — so no problems	50% Cyanuric Acid — builds up quickly
